

Name → Aanchal
father's name → Narinder Pal
Class Teacher → Shivani Mam
Roll no → 1443
login name → 9728958082

Ques) 1. Difference between sequential access storage devices and Direct access storage Device?

Ans) → Sequential access device are useful when used for backup and recovery. Since it's important to step through carefully. But it a very slow access device allow quicker access to the exact item you wish to seek. Instead of a cassette, think of a DVD with the ability to select a particular scene.

Ques) 2. Advantages of Hard disk

Ans) cost - A conventional hard drive will in general be less in cost than a solid state drive of a similar limit.

2. Capacity - limit as for as capacity limit there are different alternatives accessible for a client in HDD.
3. Accessibility
4. Life expectancy Another bit -
5. Non-volatile
6. Moving Parts

Ans → 4. fixed storage media is an internal storage medium like a hard disk that is fixed inside the computer.
Removable storage device →

A storage medium that is portable and can be taken outside the computer is termed removable storage device.

Ques → 3 ~~What~~ Explain Secondary memory with examples.

Ans → Secondary memory is the main memory in the computer. Secondary memory is a non volatile memory.

Secondary memory and Example of :-

1. SSD
2. Hard disk
3. Floop disk
4. Optical disk
5. USB disk